MANUFACTURERS OF LAP WELDED
Tubing & Casing
Both Plain and Galvanized, for Oil and Salt Wells, American Charcoal Iron Boiler Tubes, Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.
SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
W. C. ALLISON'S
PATENT JOINT
Oil Well Tubing.
This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint; and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.
Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,500 pounds to the square inch.

MANUFACTURERS OF
LAP-WELDED OIL WELL
Tubing & Casing.
We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the Lap and the Weld
are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.
Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,500 pounds to the square inch before shipment.
Each length stamped with our trade mark,

PATENT STEEL JARS
The undersigned hereby give notice to manufacturers and parties making, selling or using Drilling Jars made of wrought iron or steel combined, that by virtue of certain assignments duly recorded at the United States Patent Office, we own the sole and absolute right, title and interest in three patents for Drilling Jars one granted to James C. Eastman, in July, 1867, and two to Edward Guilford, in May, 1868; said patents covering all Jars made of wrought iron and steel combined, and applied substantially in the manner represented in said patents and generally known as steel jars.

Griffin's Patent
WATER PACKER!

This is one of the most useful Patents for oil operators ever invented.
It has several advantages over any other Seed Bag or water packer in use.
1st. It can be put down quicker and is instantly ready for use as there is no waiting for seed to swell, and by its quick action the well is kept clean.
2d. It can never fasten tubing or casing in a well so that it cannot be taken out readily.
We have taken the Agency and Manufacture of Ely's Patent Sucker-rod Adjuster.
We also furnish the Long Hook and Wood Connections, at Cost Price,

Titusville Morning Herald.

Grant in Titusville.

THE CITIZENS WASH THEIR FACES AND PUT ON THEIR BEST CLOTHES—THE COMMON COUNCIL ON ITS GOOD BEHAVIOR—WHAT THEY DID AND HOW THEY DID IT.

From the Oil City Derrick.

TITUSVILLE, Sept. 14, 1871.

The excitement in Titusville when the old Drake well was struck, twelve years ago, or later, when the vigilance committee ran through the streets of this sweet-scented city in 1866, yelling "down with the traitors, up with Stonewall Jack," was a mild "traction" compared with that kicked up by the announcement that the President and his party would devote an hour and a half to inspecting this so-called "hub of the universe" and the satellite around which Meadville, Oil City and West Hickory revolve and derive their light.

As per request of the Daily Derrick, your special met the delegation of big bugs at the depot, and made the following observations:

President Grant occupied a special smoking coach from Corry until he arrived at Hydetown, when he began to prepare for the reception that awaited him. At Hydetown M. N. Allen, of the Courier, and Colonel Cogswell, of the HERALD, each boarded the train at the risk of their lives, and, entering the Presidential car arm in arm, introduced themselves as the representatives of the two leading papers of the country, each having the largest circulation in the oil region.

The reporters of these papers—Leonard the blonde, and Warner, the brunette—had decided to Tryonville the night before, but meeting engaged in a dispute over their last oil reports, both missed the train and did not arrive until later in the day.

As the train neared Titusville a national salute was fired from Roberts' torpedo battery, and a federal salute was commenced by the owners of the Dickey patent, but before three torpedoes had been fired Roberts served an injunction on the Dickey artillery, and the two batteries were lumbered off for Pittsburgh to await a settlement by law, which will not allow them to participate in any similar demonstrations for some time to come.

AT TITUSVILLE

As the special train entered the city limits the excitement became intense; teams ran away, the principal hotel raised the price of board, and poker players who had been up all night ceased work and assembled at the depot, where a surging throng had gathered to see the President. At this moment a thrilling tableaux was seen: Upon the cow-catcher stood Colonel Cogswell, waving in one hand the American flag, while with the other he distributed copies of the HERALD containing the statistics of the Titusville Post-office, showing the amount of business done before and since he had "encumbered" the office, the number of boxes rented and copies of the Sporting Times taken in the city.

Upon leaving the cars, the President was knocked down by a Pleasantville hack driver and thrown into the stage of the villain, while the rest of his suite were similarly distributed among the representatives of the Pleasantville and Shamburg stage lines. Fortunately this manoeuver was observed and a delegation of citizens rescued the distinguished visitors and placed them in carriages, when the cavalcade formed in the following order:

PROCESSION.

1. Carriages containing pavement and sewer committees.
2. Members of Common Council dressed in white—singing, "I want to be an angel."
3. President Grant and family.
4. Mayor of Petroleum Centre and Colonel Forney in basket phaeton.
5. F. W. Ames, R. D. Fletcher, and balance of distinguished men who have fought and are willing to bleed the country.
6. Forty young ladies bearing a banner inscribed, "New county, or matrimony."
7. Citizens on wheels and on foot.
8. Cavalry from the country, and delegation of lawyers on livery horses rented at six dollars an hour.
9. One hundred and eighty-seven thousand, six hundred and fifty-two and one half people (the fraction had but one leg) from abroad, followed by Coleman's band.

The route of the procession was as follows: After spending half an hour in looking at the new depot, and comparing it with the flimsy structures at Cleveland and Chicago, the procession moved up Franklin street to Spring, down Spring to Drake, up Drake to Main, down Main to Monroe, where the President stopped and examined the Roberts' pavement; down Monroe to Spring, up Spring to Parshall House, where a magnificent breakfast of two courses was served to the President and party and those of the rabble who could pay two dollars for a ticket, the proceeds to be donated to the poor (of the Common Council) Those who could not obtain entrance to the breakfast room were permitted to stand in the hall and corridors and smell the soup, at one dollar a head. The following is the bill of fare:

Breakfast to President Grant, at the Parshall House, Titusville, Pa., Thursday morning, September 14, 1871, tendered by the MORNING HERALD and paid for by the Courier:

BEVERAGES

Black Tea, Old Thomas Gin, Green Tea, Coffee (old Rye'o), Spray (from the Derrick), Washington Eye-opener, Miller Farm Whisky with the edge off, Choke-you-late Ram, Blue Vitriol Bitters, Glycerine Snapps, etc.

BROILED.

Dead Duck, Fish (Hamilton), Bacon (smoked in compliment to Grant), Hash, Parshall House style, Haricot de Rumpsumpas, a la Church run.

FRUITS, ETC.

Green Apples, Mandrakes, Raisins and Peanuts.

AT BREAKFAST.

The scene at the breakfast table while the hungry ones were at work was exceedingly lively. The representatives of the two dailies were busily engaged in setting forth the merits of their respective publications, the present city postmaster constantly feeing the servants and bringing the President fresh griddle cakes, hot from the kitchen, while aspirants to that office were also at work in the kitchen mixing up political batter, and doing the meats to a turn. After breakfast the President was called upon for a speech and responded as follows:

"GENTLEMEN: Though I have only been with you an hour, I can plainly see your city has not its equal on the face of the globe; Oil City, New York, Corry, Chicago, Petroleum Centre and San Francisco are mere howling hamlets in the wilderness compared with your metropolis When you get the O C & A R. R. shops here—I repeat it, when you get them, when the Courier and the HERALD shall LIE down together and the Evening News have a circulation of 1,000,000—then you will realize the truth of what I am telling you. All that you need is more oil, more horse races and a city government like that of New York, to make you what you deserve."

(Here the General sat down on Forney's stove-pipe hat, which was carried out by a waiter.)

were numerous and exciting. W. W. Bloss exhibited to the President the plan of the new HERALD office. M N Allen read the last oil report of the Courier "out loud," and directed particular attention to his method of reducing refined oil to crude, and showed how great the expense and waste of brain power must be, in getting up such a great mass of words, and the number of semi-colons used monthly in the same. The editor of the Sunday News showed how the patent intestine system worked with him, and suggested that Grant try his style of making a living—no brains, no money, no anything required. The city tanners presented samples of Titusville hides tanned here. Prof. Boeley, school superintendent, showed a boy whose hide he had tanned last week, and Grant said he could not have done better himself. Roberts Bros. offered to touch off one of their nitro-glycerine torpedoes just to show how the incumbent of any office might be removed without trouble. Grant remarked "he wished Roberts (or some other man) had had the blowing up of Fort Fisher instead of Butler." Samples of the Roberts pavement and copies of the tinkered charter amendments were then presented to the visitors.

Just as the train was leaving, a large delegation of postoffice clerks appeared in sight around the corner, and made a gallant rush for the train, but they were not nimble enough for an introduction, and went back sweering in a very unofficial manner. The Presidential party left in fine spirits, rejoicing over several shares apiece in the Water Company, which were donated in a whole-souled manner by the committee of arrangements, (with an eye on future appointments), and so ended the most magnificent day Titusville ever saw.

Miss Thurston's Trip in the Balloon "Atlantic."

From the Watertown Times, Sept. 9th.

Miss Nellie Thurston, the daring lady aeronaut, who has made several successful ascensions this season, under the direction of Prof. Squire, of this city, made a beautiful ascension from the Watertown fair grounds on Thursday. Nothing was heard from her until a late hour yesterday evening, and great anxiety was felt in regard to her safety. She landed in the woods about twenty-five miles back of Richland station, in the town of Redfield. She remained in the basket of the balloon suspended in a tree all of Thursday night, and jumped out yesterday morning. She arrived at the Woodruff House last night in a rather "mussed up" condition; but without suffering any serious inconvenience from her trip.

She describes the view as seen from her balloon for the first hour, as magnificent in the highest degree. To the west lay the broad lake, beneath her the dotted landscape. The afternoon train was creeping on its way towards Watertown, just beneath, as she passed over farms and villages, toward the southeast. It is probable she passed nearly over Barnes' Corners, and the neighboring settlements in Lewis county. Seeing the large forests ahead, shortly after six p. m. she tried to land in a clearing. As the balloon approached the earth, the strong current of air would drive her back again over the woods; until by throwing out ballast she would rise again and keep on her way. Three times she tried in this way to light in clearings in the woods. At the third trial, the current, which was quite strong, drove her back again over the forest, and this time the "Atlantic," having lost so much gas, refused to rise again, and settled itself in a lively manner in the top of a tall birch tree, in the town of Osceola, on what are known as the Osceola Flats.

This is directly east of the town of Redfield, in Oswego county, in almost a direct line southeast from Watertown, and not far from fifty miles distant. The noblest tree in the forest was first to catch the silken car, with its precious freight, and the lady found the balloon spread out over the birch sentinel, and herself swinging in mid-air, about fifty feet from the ground. Making the network fast as best she could to a limb, and leaving a portion of the gas in the balloon to prevent injury to it by settling down upon the limes, she "considered her prospects." It was now 7 o'clock p. m. Not being very well acquainted with this portion of the United States, and fearing to investigate a strange country at midnight, in the midst of the forest, she resigned herself to her fate, and made preparations to "camp out." The basket hung partially on its side, so that she could not rest on the bottom of it, but upon its side, which was in fact a very perilous position in which to be rocked to sleep.

A light shawl and the canvas used to wrap the balloon was all the extra baggage she carried. She did not order them sent to her room. Wrapping herself in these as best she could, she sat down to "pleasant dreams" of comfort and convenience at home. The cold awakened her many times during the night, and she became nearly chilled through. She awoke at 4.30 a. m. and took another survey. Below her, she saw what she supposed were bushes. Throwing out her canvas, it would not reach. Then she tied a rope to the canvas, and thought it would answer. She immediately settled the bill for her lodging, and left the "Atlantic" on the first "down" train. Reaching the end of her rope, about thirty feet, she found the bushes to be birch trees about twenty feet in height. She could not go back, and dropped to the ground.

Here she received her injuries, and was three hours in reaching a clearing, going a distance of two miles through the forest, fording streams and pursuing devious ways At the clearing she found a boy chopping wood. He directed her to his father's house, and a party or four or five left at once to find the balloon. Miss Thurston was then unable to walk, and was carried by the party. She had marked her way out by breaking branches off the trees, so that no difficulty was had in finding the balloon. About 1 o'clock the "Atlantic" was brought out, without the slightest injury, and at 2 o'clock the twenty-five mile ride to Richland station was undertaken. This point was reached shortly after 7 p. m. last evening, from which place she telegraphed of her safe descent. The balloon was brought to Watertown on the same train with its fair passenger.

A Notable Wedding in Newport.

From the Boston Transcript.

Jerome Napoleon Bonsparte and Mrs. Caroline Le Roy Edgar, of Boston, were married in St. Mary's (Catholic) Church, Newport, R. I.

The wedding was a quiet one, and the bride was attired in a traveling dress. No reception was held here, and the parties left for Boston by the noon train. The ceremony, which was nearly an hour in length, was performed by the Rev. Father Hughes of St. Patrick's Church, Providence, and the Rev. Father Finnigan. Mr. Maistre played the grand organ of St Mary's in his best style. After the ceremony, the friends of the parties informally congratulated the bride at the altar. The church was filled with spectators, though the wedding party was small. The guests were attired in morning toilets, without any attempt whatever at display.

Mr. Bonaparte is the grandson of Mme. Patterson Bonaparte and grand-nephew of Napoleon I. He was born in this country in 1832, graduated at West Point, and entered the French army, where he has won for himself much honor. At the siege of Sebastopol he received a decoration from the Sultan for gallant and meritorious conduct. His appearance is handsome and martial, and his physique very fine. His face has something of a Napoleonic cast, and he is said to possess fine abilities, amiable manners, and a disposition which gains him friends always. He is now forty years of age, and his destiny at present is a mere matter of speculation. By the laws of the Catholic Church he is, in case of the death of the Prince Imperial, heir to the throne of France, should the family again come into power. The Church never declared the marriage of Jerome Bonaparte to Miss Patterson null and void, and Mme. Patterson Bonaparte has always prophesied that her grandson would eventually occupy the throne. But, as I said before, this is mere speculation.

Mrs. Edgar, who was Miss Appleton of Boston, a granddaughter of Daniel Webster, is well known in Boston society. She is a lovely type of the American woman, a pretty, pleasing brunette, with a refined face and dignified carriage. She has been a widow several years, and has owned and occupied a handsome summer residence here a number of seasons. She was attired in an ashes-of-roses traveling dress of some soft material, which draped very gracefully, and a white straw bonnet, trimmed with black lace and feathers of a tea-rose shade. She was brought forward to the alter by her uncle, Mr. Appleton, of Boston, and Miss Julia Armstead, who accompanied her as witness. The parties kept their seats in different parts of the church during most of the service, and after reaching the chancel they remained kneeling through all the ceremony.

The Very Worst Yet.

The editor of the Colorado Herald had occasion to leave town for three or four days, and he committed his paper, during his absence, to the charge of a young man, a novice in journalism, whom he had just engaged as assistant. Before leaving he instructed the ambitious young editor not to permit any chance to go unimproved, and to force the paper and its very small subscription price upon the attention of the public.

"Always keep before your mind the fact that the object of this paper is to extend its circulation," he said, "and whenever you see a chance to insert a puff of the Herald in any notice you can make, pile in as thick as you can. Keep the people stirred up all the time, you understand, so that the people will believe that our paper is the greatest sheet in the United States."

The parting text was shed, and the editor left. The following night, while he was far away from home, his wife died suddenly. Upon the assistant devolved the unpleasant duty of announcing the sad intelligence to the public. He did it as follows:

"GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN."

We are compelled this morning to perform a duty which is peculiarly painful to the able assistant editor, who has been engaged on this paper at an enormous expense, in accordance with our determination to make the Herald a first-class journal. Last night death suddenly and unexpectedly snatched away from the domestic hearth (the best are advertised under the head of stoves and furnaces upon our first page,) Agatha Burns, wife of Rufus P. Burns, the gentlemanly editor of the Herald. Terms, three dollars per year, invariably in advance. A kind mother and an exemplary wife. Office over Coleman's grocery, up two flights of stairs. Knock hard. "We shall miss thee, mother, we shall miss thee." Job printing solicited. Funeral at half-past 4, from the house just across the street from the Herald office. Gone to be an angel now. Advertisements inserted for ten cents a square.

Well, the editor arrived at home that day at noon. Slowly and sadly he was observed to arm himself with a double-barreled fowling piece, into which he inserted two pounds and a half of bullets. He marched over to the office, followed by an immense crowd. The assistant editor was busy at the time painting a big placard to be tacked on the hearse. It bore the legend: "Buy your coffins at Simm's, over the Herald office." The assistant editor cast his eye around and perceived his chief. Care was set upon that wan cheek, and thunder clothed his brow. He leveled his gun. The assistant did not wait. With one wild and awful yell he jumped from the second-story window, and struck out for the golden shores of the Pacific. It is believed that he eventually swam over to China. But there is only one editor now, and the clerk in the office has standing orders to blow out the brains of any man who brings an obituary notice to that paper.

Musical and Dramatic.

M. W. Leffingwell continues in Boston the coming week.

Ettie Henderson plays through the New England circuit, commencing on the 18th instant.

C. Kimic, Dutch vocalist and comedian, commences at the Howard, Boston, on the 18th instant.

Jenny Hughes, serio-comic vocalist, opens in Baltimore, at the Front-street theatre, on October 2d.

Joseph Jefferson opens in Cincinnati in "Rip Van Winkle" on the 18th instant, at Pike's opera house, under John T. Ford's management.

Dobie Bidwell is the star of the dramatic season at the Trimble Opera House, Albany, N. Y., commencing there on the 18th inst.

Fanny Buste, the soubrette, late of Niblo's Garden, and now at Hooley's Opera House, Chicago, has made a hit as Helen in the "Hunchback."

Mr. Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, has been the guest of his friend, Mr. James Oakes, of Boston, for the last two weeks, and is in excellent health.

A correspondent of the Detroit Post has just been to Ober Ammergau to see the Passion play. The place was crowded with American and English. The correspondent, while there, roomed with Judas Iscariot, and "it was owing to his influence that Americans have this year been forbidden to go behind the scenes and talk with the actresses."

The President at Pittsburgh.

Special dispatch to the Morning Herald.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.

The Presidential party left Franklin at 10 o'clock this morning by special train via the Allegheny Valley Railroad, the Franklin Reception Committee accompanying it as far as Brady's Bend. Stoppages of a few moments were made at the principal stations to enable the people, who had congregated in great gala crowds, to express their regards. The President, however, simply bowed his responses. The party arrived in Pittsburgh at forty minutes past 2 o'clock, proceeding to Washington county almost immediately afterwards. In deference to the previously expressed wishes of the President concerning the matter, no reception was held or other public demonstration made here.

The New York Frauds--Injunction Granted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15

There was a smaller attendance than on any previous day at the hearing of the argument in the injunction case, this morning. Ex Judge Bartlett, Tweed's counsel, said: I am here to show cause why the injunction should not be continued. I would be safe in submitting the case on the affidavits without argument. Our answer is not put in yet, but we have met all the points generally by separate affidavits. Your honor enjoins my client to perform certain duties. He answers he has faithfully and fully performed them, and is corroborated under oath by the Mayor of this city. The law says an injunction against a corporation shall not be granted except on eight day's notice. Here is an injunction granted ex parte without notice, and it is therefore void as regards the supervisors. A fatal difficulty for plaintiff. Under the decision of your honor the plaintiff has no legal standing here as against the corporation of New York, or Mayor Hall as an individual: it is the action of nobody to compel us to do what we are doing. Counsel threatened to hold plaintiff responsible for bringing false charges against his client, and denounced the persons who prompted the injunction suit as a band of Catiline conspirators without a Catiline, and that they have sworn to libels. He asked that the injunction be immediately dissolved so far as his client is concerned. The very form of government under which the acts charged in the complaint were done has passed away, and the legislature ordered the payment of the claims.

Barrett, for the prosecution, argued that officials had no right to raise and expend money under the two per cent. act. The first ten sections of complaint show the mischief to be remedied, the payment of fraudulent claims against the city, and the two per cent act comes in to prevent the expenditure of one dollar outside of it. There is not one word denied of the acts of fraud charged in the first ten sections. He asked, why does the Mayor ask different relief than that asked by the Supervisor? The Mayor and commonality admit the allegations by their demurrer. Barrett continued, reviewing the acts of Mayor Hall, charged him with making paltry excuses, and then proceeded to the case of Connolly, whose affidavit, he said, was the boldest and least tricky document before the court, and proves the falsity of Hall's answer. He argued that Tweed and Connolly's answers contradicted each other.

Beach interrupting, charged Barrett with grossly garbling Connolly's affidavit.

After a brief, sharp controversy between the counsel about the manner of conducting the case, the court took a recess.

After the recess Barrett resumed and quoted the the affidavits of Connolly and Tweed to show discrepancies, declared the affidavits of Cunningham a device to mislead, and that they were contradicted by portions of Tweed's and Connolly's own minutes. He argued that the supervisors by coming into court and praying for judgment in the pleadings were stopped from making the objection that plaintiff has no standing in court. The destuque trust can follow his property wherever he finds it, whether in the hands named as trustees or their servants, or not, their servants or confederates. I now come to the construction of the two per cent act, and meaning of the legislature in passing it.

Judge Barnard—I came to a conclusion on that, that it is constitutional except as far as docks and parks are concerned.

Barrett—It is said if you confine the city to the money specified in that act you stop the wheels of government; but it authorizes a round sum, $23 000,000. They also received $7,000 from consuls, and they don't tell us what they done with the money.

Counsel added that he was sure Mayor Hall was not concerned in the associations referred to in the first ten sections At the close of Barrett's argument Judge Barnard rendered the following decision. Judge Barnard said:

With regard to the point raised, that the two per cent. act was unconstitutional, he would not declare the act so unless very clear on the case, and he had no such clearness and would not take the responsibility, and would prefer that it should be heard more maturely in the General Term. The defendant having a clear right to sue brings action against four defendants, officers of the city government, asking among other things that the supervisors be enjoined from raising taxes on behalf of the city and county of New York and Board of Supervisors from paying any expense of the government of the city and county for 1871. Complainant also charges a conspiracy on the part of the three defendants by combination, collusion and fraud to obtain payment of dishonest claims on the city and county treasury, and that they did other acts of wrong and fraud, and that the allegation is made on information and belief. The three defendants deny it. The defendant Tweed denies that there is any truth in the allegations; the comptroller denies it in the same way; Hall denies it in language equally strong. The amount of belief to be attached to the statements as made against defendant Hall can be weighed by the statement of the counsel for the people who last addressed the court, that he did not believe that defendant was personally interested in any of the companies or associations named in the charges against him. Then comes one of the points of law to be borne in mind, that where an allegation is made on information and belief, on one side and positively denied on the other, it is to be taken in favor of the person denying, unless other circumstances throw discredit on the man making a positive denial. They also charge three defendants with having run the city in debt and having incurred vast liabilities far in excess of the appropriations allowed by the legislature. Their answer is that the two per cent. law did not repeal the laws previously existing for raising revenues in the city and county. I differ with them. I think the two per cent. act repealed all laws except those giving power to issue bonds for the departments of docks and parks, and therefore this expenditure will not be taken into the two per cent. act. The departments of docks and parks have the right to issue bonds whenever necessary to carry on the duties entrusted to them by law. No suspicion or alleged fraud has been charged against them so far as I can find from any paper here, or any statement made. There is another allegation in the complaint, that large claims, amounting to several millions of dollars, have been paid out to persons having no existence, and no legal demand to the claim or right to receive. That allegation has not been denied, as I understand, by any defendant in this answer.

Beach—We deny any knowledge of fraud in these claims.

Judge Barnard—Before the preliminary injunction was granted in this case it became necessary to inquire whether under the words "expenses of the city and county government," it was the intention to stop all work on public parks, docks, streets, &c., and counsel agreed with me that it was not the intention, and I said, as I shall rule to-day, that parks, docks, charities, police, croton water, gas works, board of education and salaries are not included in this injunction. The sums to pay the salaries of employees of these departments are supposed to have been raised by the treasury, and if paid away wrongfully they are, as a matter of course, responsible, and must see that proper persons receive the money. [Applause.] That brings me to the last allegation. It is charged against two defendants, the mayor and comptroller, of having paid dishonest claims, knowing them to be such. The comptroller cites a financial officer is entrusted with auditing and paying almost all bills, and even after the rendition of judgment he still has power to appeal to the court of final appeals and has paramount and supreme power, and it is on him more than all other officers together that the people rely for the prevention of frauds. It is not possible to perpetuate or take a dollar from the treasury, it be see that the bills are properly audited, and it is no excuse to say that his subordinates may deceive him. It is possible for them to do so, but it is a crime if it be done, paying these various claims of an outrageous character, bearing on the face of them the appearance of being little better than highway robbery. It was his business to have examined carefully the vouchers and satisfied himself that the charges were correct and the services performed, and if he failed in that he failed in his duty to himself and the citizens, and was guilty of an act of criminal negligence. With regard to the duties of the Mayor, he says his duties are mere mechanical, and that he signs warrants as presented by the Comptroller, and although that may have been the practice, and I presume it has for years, to sign checks without looking, and have myself as commissioner signed checks for millions without knowing they were correct, yet the community expect or at least hope that whenever an act is required to be done by three or four persons, in certifying bills they will not rely upon others but will see to it themselves. I am not justified under the circumstances in saying that payment of these by the Comptroller and raising of bonds by the Board of Apportionment authorize me to say they are entitled to the confidence of the court, so as to permit them to go on and spend more money, having failed in consequence of omission, if not of commission. It is my duty, and painful duty, not to allow another dollar to be paid from the treasury or another bond be issued till such time as there shall be some alteration in that board. [Applause] It may be said that in consequence of granting this order a city and county government will be disorganized. I have nothing to do with that. I have a plain duty to perform, not a pleasant one, but one which I cannot avoid. Whenever a proper case is presented for an injunction it is my duty to grant it. It is said there is a remedy for the purpose of trying charges against the Comptroller. I know of no such legal remedy, and where there is no remedy against robbery of a community it is the duty of the bench to invent a remedy, and if none existed the court would be justified in resorting to any means in its power to prevent the continuance of that state of things disreditable to the city. We have the credit of the city at least whether aged men wishing to give their offspring an inheritance or middle-aged men, willing to provide their children or little infant in the cradle, we are all interested in it, and in looking for relief to prevent confiscation of their property, the injunction is granted. [Frantic applause.]

In reply to O'Gorman, his Honor said he did not include the issue of assessment bonds, payable by property owners for local improvements.

General News.

Intelligence from Washington states that the Woman's Club is negotiating for the purchase of a building in which to locate the business college, which they propose to establish for the instruction of the demi monde who wish to reform. Subscriptions for this purpose have been already commenced, and police raids upon bad houses are postponed for a few days in order that the club may extend their preparations for the reception and care of such inmates as may seek to abandon their life of shame. Public sentiment is divided in regard to the wisdom and prospects of the movement, but circumstances have given the reformers an opportunity to put their theories to the test of practical application, and the result cannot fail to attract wide attention, whatever it may be.

Ingersoll, the gentleman who was paid some large claims against the city and county, has not left for Europe as stated. He is in the city.

The rumors that the New York Printing Company has gone out of business appears to have been founded on the fact that some prominent sign boards of that establishment have been removed.

Patrick Logan, who was dismissed from the police force for dishonorable conduct during the July riots, has been nominated as candidate for the Assembly.

The Italian Society of New York has decided to celebrate the anniversary of the discovery of America, on October 12. The movement against the organ grinders is abandoned.

The secretary of the New York Yacht Club has not yet received any further communication from Ashbury regarding the yacht race, and states that he believes the Livonia has not yet started on her ocean trip.

The Lotos Club last night passed resolutions of condolence with the friends of the late Walter Montgomery, who was a member of the Lotos. Copies of the resolutions will be sent to the Savage and Junior Garrick Clubs, London.

The World is dissatisfied because the Tribune has no words of denunciation against the scandalous corruptions which pervade the federal service, and thinks the attacks upon New York officials more for the purpose of condemning the Democratic party than dishonest men.

Jacob Vanderbilt, President of the Staten Island Ferry Company, was arraigned to-day on the charge of manslaughter, and pleaded not guilty.

A messenger of the North River Bank, this city, confessed to-day to the theft of five thousand dollars in gold certificates, which he said he was robbed of two weeks ago.

Cotton Association.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.

The cotton factors of this city have long felt the need of an organization by which they could, through concerted action, bring the advantages which this city presents as a cotton market more prominently before the trade of the country, and on Wednesday last held a meeting, at which a constitution was adopted. At an adjourned meeting to-day the organization was perfected by the election of Mathew Addy, of Addy, Hull & Co., President; S. Lester Taylor, of Taylor Bros., and M. Herschberg, of J. H. Goodheart & Co., Vice Presidents; George Sharpless, of George Sharpless & Co., Secretary, and Thomas McDonald, of Robert Moore & Co., Treasurer. The officers were appointed a committee to prepare by-laws. The Cincinnati Cotton Association will soon be ready for business.

A Raised Check.

Some days ago a man came to this city pretending to be a Mr. Sherman, grain dealer from Chicago, about to enter into business here. He rented a room in Pike's Opera-house, furnished it handsomely, and deposited a check for $18,000 with the Commercial Note bank for collection, saying he would transact all his business with that bank. Shortly after he applied for an advance of two thousand five hundred dollars to meet an emergency. It was paid on his check, and it subsequently was discovered that the check was raised from a genuine check for one hundred dollars. Sherman has not yet been found.

Indicted.

The grand jury, to-day, reported thirty-one indictments against keepers of houses of ill-fame, and three against owners of houses used for that purpose.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.

The Secretary of War has sent the Judge Advocate General the communication of Gen. Brice in regard to the Hodge defalcation, and charges are to be preferred against Hodge. The application of Hodge to be released from confinement, has been refused. Brice asks for the fullest investigation of his conduct in the affair.

Sureties upon bonds of collectors of internal revenue, against whom suits have been commenced for balances due the government, are asking for a continuance of the suits. Commissioner Douglass declines to accede to any requests of this character.

Supervisors Butcher of New York, Fulton of Pennsylvania, Ferry of Kentucky, Corwin, of Southern Ohio, and Fulton of Maryland, are in consultation with Commissioner Douglass to-day, to take measures for the better enforcement of the tobacco tax and to secure a larger revenue from that source and at the same time protect the interests of lowest dealers.

The cotton crop reports, purporting to have come from the Department of Agriculture during the past month, have not been genuine. There are reports of injuries by the boll-worm and catterpillar fly in Mississippi and Louisiana, but there is no evidence that general or serious loss from insects is probable. The drawbacks, though greater than those reported in September of last year, are not sufficiently serious to excite apprehensions of a greatly depreciated yield. They are reported each year in such portions of the cotton areas. In the records of last year there was considerable complaint of damages to the cotton crop from rust, worms and unfavorable weather. These facts do not point to the enlargement of the expectation hither to indulged in, but if they are reliable, the most favorable season could scarcely bring a crop exceeding three and one-third millions bales. If the growing season should be short or unfavorable, three million of bales will be a good result, and with a combination of unfavorable circumstances the product ought to be still further reduced.

Foreign News.

LONDON, Sept. 15.

George Potter suggests, in the Times, to-day, a compromise of the Newcastle difficulty. He recommends that the employers adopt nine hours as the daily term of labor, and that the striking workmen sacrifice half an hour's wages per day to secure the reduction of hours. This, Potter thinks, would come very near satisfying the demands of both parties. The meeting announced to take place in Trafalgar Square, London, for an expression of sympathy of the London workmen for their brethren in Newcastle-on-Tyne, has been postponed because the Newcastle representative of the committee which called the meeting, objected to coalescing with political parties.

An immense mill by the manufacture of cloth at Rochester, county of Kent, twenty-eight miles from London, was burned last night, and 800 men thrown out of employment.

General Salzar, who lately returned from the United States, has issued a proclamation from Curaco against President Blanco.

Chief Justice Chase.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.

Chief Justice Chase arrived in this city last evening and is the guest of Judge Dunlevy, on Calumet avenue. The judge is quite thin, although his eye is bright, his form erect and he walks with a firm and elastic step. The lower part of his face and tongue seem to be suffering slightly from paralysation, and he experiences slight difficulty in his utterances. His disease has made him appear much older than he did two years ago, but his intellect seems as clear as ever. A large number of citizens of both parties paid their respects to the chief justice to-day, as did General Beauregard, who is now stopping here. All were received cordially and courteously. He will leave for the east to-morrow evening, and expects to be in Washington City about the middle of October, and will then take his seat on the bench of the Supreme Court, but intends to make his work light.

—The art gallery and photographic rooms of Mrs. O. B. Evans on Franklin street in the Kingsland block, are daily thronged with visitors who not only carry away with them vivid remembrances of fine pictures, but also handsome portraits of themselves and friends as souvenirs of their visit. The walls of these rooms are hung with a large and varied selection of portraits in every style of art, including some of our well known citizens, all of which show the touch of a master hand in the shade of color and delicacy of finish, that makes a first-class picture.

—One of the amusing features of the recent Presidential visit was that where a number of ladies who were desirous of meeting President Grant, had entered the Opera House, having been informed that after breakfast the distinguished visitors would be shown in that direction. The entrance door to the auditorium fastens with a spring lock, and like Genevra, once within there was no getting out, save with assistance from the outside. The minutes flew by and no President came; he had previously departed for the depot, and upon trying to get out, the ladies found themselves prisoners, and not until some time had elapsed did they succeed in making themselves heard, and then released from a tedious captivity. Strangers are now shown the bolted apartment where they escaped starvation, and—

"Should you ever come to Modena, Stop at the palace near the Reggio gate," where you can find out all about it.

—Yesterday was one of those dreary dismal days that drives a Frenchman to suicide, and it was generally believed that the "equinoctial storm" was upon us again for the fourth or fifth time this season.

—The Erie Dispatch comes to us enlarged to a nine-column paper, and not inferior in size to the leading dailies of the country. Its advertising columns, which are well filled, bespeak a high degree of prosperity, and the editorial and local department are conducted with lively ability. The Dispatch is a familiar name in the oil region, and in its new dress will no doubt become more popular than ever.

—Fagundas, the city on a hill, and celebrated for its West Hickory eels, is troubled with corner loafers, like our own city. The good-looking and respectable young men of that town all go to church regularly with the good-looking and respectable girls, and the "ugly boys," who chew tobacco and drink gin, stand on the corners gazing at the happy couples going home from meeting, frequently indulging in insulting and profane remarks as they pass. As there is no method of refining these crude customers, the only way to separate the benzine from their systems, is to boot it out —Some chap anxious to see whether the Stowell pavement would stand test as stone, walked over that section recently laid before the Presbyterian parsonage while it was in a soft condition, and the imprint of his mudhooks remain, to be discovered in after years, perhaps, as footprints of the Palezoic age and to serve as geological curiosities to future savants who will discuss the question as to who ho the tracks were pre adamitic or sub-Col Drake.

—R. H. Boughton, Jr., Gordon S. Williams and Horace Temple, of this city, left yesterday morning for "Bob Kedge's," in Canada, where they propose to catch some of the old-fashioned muscalonge fish, fry them on pine slivers and eat them with Boston hard tack until the dimples come once more in their pallid cheeks.

—The thieves in Corry are having an easy time of it. They set two dogs to fighting in the street and in two minutes every man, woman, policeman and child are out seeing the sport; then the thieves burgle their houses.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—Mr. J. H. Bross yesterday sold his new brick block, near Second National Bank, on Washington street, to James H. Caldwell, and Louis Emery, Jr., for $10,000 cash. The lot is fifty feet front by thirty-two feet deep, with a vacant lot twenty by thirty-eight feet. The same property was offered at $9,000 on Tuesday.

Mr. Bross also sold to B H Sears, of New York, yesterday a lot thirty by one hundred and twenty feet on west side of Drake street, eighty feet north of Pine street, for $1,500 cash.

REV J. M. HALL, of Ohio, will preach in the First Presbyterian church to-morrow morning and evening.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN service will be held in the Methodist Church, Sabbath afternoon, at half-past 4 All are cordially invited.

SUNDAY services will be held at the Baptist church to-morrow at half past ten a. m., and half past seven p. m. Preaching by Rev. A. Murdoch, pastor.

QUEEN OF THE ROAD.—In another column will be found the card of Major T. H. Allen, of Corry, manufacturer of the justly celebrated wagon, the Queen of the Road. Major A. has two fine specimens of his wagon at the Bush House. They are well worth an examination by any who wish to buy, or inspect a first-class wagon, suitable for light driving.

PERSONAL.—A telegram from Franklin announces that Mr. James Smith, of Buffalo, who was advertised in the HERALD of yesterday as missing, arrived in Franklin yesterday morning. There are no further particulars

PERSONAL.—Mr. George M. Mowbray, our former townsman, is stopping at the Parshall House. C. Hernandez, A. M. Pellot and H. Pellot, of France, are also stopping at the same hotel. The latter gentlemen are on a geological excursion through the oil region

CAPTAIN T. H. ALLEN has established an agency at the Bush House for his new wagon, the "Queen of the Road." See advertisement this morning.

The Courier's New Departure—A Tempest in a Teapot.

We are impelled to congratulate our Democratic cotemporary, the Courier, which, as a last desperate expedient for making political capital, has taken a "new departure" in earnest, and boldly become the champion of the down-trodden negro—the negro, so long the victim of Republican tyranny and outrage! The Courier has at last discovered that he is "a man and a brother," and folds him to its fraternal embrace with a genuine gush of affection! We have always had hopes of the Courier, but we were hardly prepared for this. We knew its acrobatic propensities, but its present achievement is unsurpassed. Here is a double sommersault, in which the intrepid Courier precipitates itself from the high and dignified platform of "a white man's government" and a white man's breakfast table, to the inglorious level of social equality and miscegenation! Shade of Wm. Lloyd Garrison, has the political millenium arrived!

"Can such things be,
And overcome us like a summer cloud,
Without our special wonder?"

But such is the appalling fact. The penitent editor of the Courier renounces the false gods of Democracy and throws himself upon the heaving bosom of the weeping African (Lee) in a gush of remorse and contrition that has been unequaled since Artemus Ward leaned up against a barrel of mackerel No. 2, and wept because he was an orphan!

Briefly, the Courier's grievance is this: A colored man named Lee, who had secured a ticket for breakfast upon venison outlets and spring chickens with General Grant at the Parshall House, was excluded from the table by the clerk of the hotel, who recognized him as a former waiter in the house, and the present efficient city scavenger. Thinking that the ticket was surreptitiously obtained, or that somebody was perpetrating a joke, Mr. Orr, the gentleman in charge of the entrance, declined to admit him, and he retired without his breakfast.

The Courier occupies nearly a column with an account of this "Republican outrage," and winds up with the following paragraph:

"P. S.—Since the above was in type, we understand that Mr. Orr, book-keeper at the Parshall House, refused to admit Mr. Lee on his own responsibility."

We did not know till last evening what Mr. Orr's politics were, but he assures us he is a Democrat. He is a quiet, unassuming gentleman, who is recognized as one of the most efficient attaches of the Parshall House, and is exceedingly popular with its guests. Probably any other experienced hotel clerk would have acted precisely the same under like circumstances. Mr. Orr knew Lee by reputation and occupation. It is true the Courier says Lee "is very much respected in our city, not only among those of his own race, but among the white people as well." If the Courier speaks from intimate personal acquaintance we shall not dispute its testimony, but it certainly has a more exalted opinion of him than is entertained by other colored men in Titusville. It is a different certificate of character from that given him by T. A. Thompson (whom the Courier quotes as one of the "indignants"), for he informs us that Lee is not considered very respectable among the colored people, and that the better class of them do not associate with him. But the Courier is distressed at its friend Lee's exclusion from breakfast, and we are led to infer that had the editor of the Courier managed the entertainment he would have sandwiched his colored friends all through the Presidential party, for the Courier says:

"As a Democrat, we contend that the colored people, having certain rights conferred upon them, should be protected in the enjoyment of those rights, as much so as if they were white. This is Democracy, and to this we shall always adhere."

Well, if this is Democracy, let the Courier stick to its colors. Let not its sudden affection for the "outraged" Lee subside with the occasion which called it forth. Let it be understood that the negro is welcome to Democratic hospitalities, public and private, and when this has been practically demonstrated, in even a single instance, we will send the Courier a "champion belt" which it can wear on such festive occasions.

But when we strip this trivial grievance of its hypocritical disguises, we see in it only an attempt—an abortive attempt—to make political capital in the coming elections. This affected love for the negro, and championship of social equality, is simply to make votes. The negro, in the estimation of the Courier, is "a good enough Morgan till after election," and if he can be bamboozled into the support of Democratic candidates, the Courier's object will have been accomplished, and its new-found allies can afterwards shirk for themselves. The Democratic party are in a desperate strait, not only here in Titusville, but everywhere throughout the country. For the last six months the party has been going to flinders. From Maine to California, from North Carolina to Kentucky, there has been nothing but "wounds and bruises and putrifying sores." The "new departure" in the South is toward nullification and another rebellion, and the newest departure in the North is toward venality, corruption and fraud. The German Democrats of New York have given them notice to quit The Irish-Americans are divided by religious feuds precipitated by their own party leaders. There seems to be nothing left for the distracted Democracy but to coalesce with the negro. The Courier has discovered that it must have the colored vote or give up the ship. The martyr Lee is a god-send. He is a blessing in disguise. The "late unpleasantness" is forgotten. In the custody and under the protection of the Courier the negro will never be outraged. He can eat from the same plate, drink from the same cup, sleep in the same bed, and vote the same ticket! This would be nice in theory, but better in practice. Let the Courier show its faith by its works. When it celebrates its first anniversary in October, let its colored friends be invited to the banquet, irrespective of shade, occupation or sex. But the Courier will do nothing of the sort. Its love-feasts with the colored voters are only in black and white, and will subside with the October election Until then it will reiterate this harrowing tale of a Republican outrage, always omitting the fact that the man who sold Lee his breakfast ticket was a Republican, and the man who excluded him was a Democrat! Let us weep!

THE JEWISH NEW YEAR began at sunset last night, and will be continued till sundown to-night. It is the beginning of the month Tishri. The celebration attendant upon the occasion will be continued until to-morrow at sundown. This celebration is religiously kept by all Jews, reformed as well as orthodox, the world over. The "Day of Atonement" will occur September 25th, and the ceremonies commence at sundown September 24th.

Colored Indignation.

An open letter to C. M. Marshall, T. A. Thompson, G. B. Williams, F. T. Golding, the so-called leaders of our colored population:

If the Irish people should select the Prince of Wales as their champion to lead them out of British tyranny, the Hebrew single out the Jesuits to redress the wrongs suffered in Spain, or if outraged taxpayers of New York should select a committee of vigilance from the Sing Sing prison and the ewe choose a wolf to guard its young, I would have been less surprised than I was this morning when I found that you had selected a Democratic newspaper as a champion for the negroes' rights. My first thought was, perhaps it's a mistake, or a forgery, but a ray of light soon broke through my astonished vision, and it was this: a lot of colored people used as tools by our smart Democrats. All during Wednesday afternoon and evening I saw my Democratic friend, the local of the Courier, wearing that smile which is "childlike and bland," instead of his usual stern countenance, so that I almost felt tempted to ask him if he had struck oil. Other Democrats took pains to tell me of the good joke which was contemplated at the expense of the Republicans; that a "nigger" had bought a ticket, and was going to eat breakfast beside General Grant. Sure enough, it proved the next morning, that a colored man had been found whose vanity outran his discretion, and who believed by making such a grand attempt he would be forever happy and look down with contempt on his more modest colored brethren. In all societies there is a certain quantity of blockheads, who by their ignorance or selfishness try to mar all festive occasions, who would throw a corpse into a ball-room, a bombshell into a regiment of home guard on parade, or fall from the gallery into the pit just to spoil the orator's finest sentence. Mr. Abraham Lee acts like one of that class, and whilst it may be a sore disappointment to him not to have been able to sit next to Mrs. President Grant, it may afford him sufficient gratification that he has put a weapon, although a worn out one, into the hands of the enemies of the Republican party, that party which labored for years to secure for you and your people freedom and political equality, and whose standard bearer was murdered for having emancipated you, but who has not succeeded yet to remove all social prejudices against you. It is well known that Englishmen disclaim all social prejudices with regard to people of your color, and if Mr. Lee hungers for notoriety, let him present himself at the next state dinner of Queen Victoria and insist upon admission, and he will probably earn the distinction of being kicked out; let him then go to Dublin, organize an indignation meeting, with the rallying cry of "Down with the Queen! A poor mechanic kicked by the Queen's courtier!" and he will find as many sympathizers as he does here.

When will your people understand that political equality does not convey social equality, and the prejudices against the colored race, branded into the minds of the people by fifty years of persistent democratic efforts can not be wiped out by constitutional amendments. Let a Northern white laborer or school "marm" go down South and they will soon find out what prejudice can do.

If our Democratic friends think that having made you political equals, the Republicans ought to treat you on a social equality on all occasions, let us then suppose that the door-keeper of the Parshall House had admitted Mr. Lee and accidentally seated him beside one of the old "Jacksonian Democrats." Would not all our Democratic friends have jumped up as if a torpedo had been thrown among them, and indignantly resent what they would have considered an insult? Would that have been a creditable exhibition for Titusville, and would the circumstances have made Mr. Lee feel any better than he does now? But if political equality means social equality, I am sorely tempted to find it out. In my next visit to New York I will make a choice selection from those Democrats, who in 1863 burnt colored orphan asylums and hung your people to lamp-posts, dress them up in new clothes and urge them to crowd themselves into the families of our first-class Democrats, demanding the hands and hearths of their daughters. The suitors being life-long political friends, of course the father will hasten to bless the union, and at the wedding feast I agree to apologize for all the injustice I may have done in this letter.

During the past year Mr. Bloss' course was disapproved in several instances by many of his political friends, and now this dilemma, into which you try to crowd him, is a fit punishment for his sins. When he found, that the proprietors of the Parshall House would not undertake to prepare a breakfast suitable for the occasion for less than $200, the question probably presented itself to his mind like this: If the Council is required to pay $200 for Grant's breakfast, and he (Bloss) distributes complimentary tickets to "the distinguished citizens of the committee" without pay, he would never hear the last of such an outrage of feeding a lot of "rich Republicans" at the public expense and excluding the poor mechanics, and so he chose the less objectionable alternative of selling as many tickets to respectable citizens of both parties as he could, in order to avoid a charge of partiality and save expense to the city, and he did save thereby $108, and this, your indignation meeting, is his reward. I am also informed that you intend to seek redress for this "outrage" on your colored brother by an action at law, and I should not be surprised if our Democratic county judge, forgetting for the moment the Dred Scott decision, should mulct those cruel Republicans in heavy damages. Of course you will not stop there, but keep right on in this consistent course and stick to your new found champion. Be sure and shout, "how about the Grant breakfast! at the first Republican meeting this fall—it will create a laugh; vote the Democratic ticket in October; and at the next Presidential election, if the choice falls between Mr Greeley and Brick Pomeroy, vote for the latter, as Greeley kicked a begging negro once down stairs, which sin Pomeroy never committed; cheer Robert Toombs, who always treated his "niggers," well, whilst you condemn John Brown, who led several of your race astray from their kind masters. By that time I may become convinced of those often repeated assumptions, which Democrats have heretofore tried in vain to have me believe, namely, that "niggers" ain't capable of taking care of themselves, and that the Almighty created them expressly for slaves.

Hoping that you will excuse the freedom of my letter, I remain

Respectfully yours,
H. L. HERSHBERG.

Coming Amusements in Titusville.

WHO IS COMING HERE AND WHEN THEY COME—A GAY SEASON AHEAD.

The evenings are growing longer, and the sultry days of August have given place to the cool and bracing weather of September, and those of our citizens who have been absent during the heated term have nearly all returned from the various points where the days have been summered away, and with brighter faces and a more elastic step are again seen upon the streets, which exhibit an unwonted liveliness.

There are many who have not by any means passed the season in quiet and rest, many of our young ladies show traces of the summer's dissipation, though none, perhaps, that a brief sojourn at home, and the healthy mountain breezes of our city will not soon dissipate. The languor that comes from a Strauss waltz, and the premature decay of beauty from the effects of midnight strolls on hotel balconies, or promenades on the beach, is not of so lasting a character that it cannot be remedied by a skillful touch of the "bloom of youth," or "pearl powder," and we may expect soon to see our belles looking lovelier than ever. Even the jaded pleasure hunters who has indulged in the galeties of Holliday's dam, and the old stager who measures her season's capacity for Congress water by barrels, have now only to unpack their six-story valises, and renew their youth by rehearsing the conquests and defeats of the past summer.

Now that the Chautauqua lake, the mountains, or sea shore, no longer flaunt their attractions before our citizens, the question arises what shall we do for amusements this fall and winter? Does the Commercial Club intend to afford us a second delightful surprise, and is the lecture course well selected? Have our opera-house lessees arranged a programme that will add to the fine effect of the one given last winter? In answer to these queries we will simply state no expense nor pains have been spared by those who cater to the amusement-loving public, and a most brilliant series of entertainments is promised, while balls, weddings and parties are on the tapis, promised in all their magnificence, and by scores. Engagements have been made by Messrs. McCrum Mathews & Smith, with celebrated dramatic and operatic managers, that will keep the Opera-house filled for months to come. Those who are already booked for appearance in this city are as follows, while many others are being negotiated for with prospects of success: On Monday, September 18th, the celebrated dramatic troupe from the Fifth Avenue Opera-house, Pittsburgh, will commence a three nights' engagement, during which "London Assurance," "Married Life," and "Dot," three popular pieces, will be presented. Succeeding this company is Mademoiselle Christine Nilsson, who will give one of her grand concerts, Monday, Sept 25th. On the 26th the celebrated "Georgia Minstrels" give an entertainment. October 9th Victoria C Woodhull, the female candidate for the Presidency, will lecture, to be followed on the 16th inst. by Elith O'Gorman, the escaped nun. October 19th and 20th, Sherry's New York Theatre, with a new and complete company, will give two entertainments, to be followed on the 21st by Ole Bull.

October 31st and November 1st the Hibernian Minstrels appear, to be followed on the 2d, 3d and 4th by the original Wallace Sisters in their favorite characters. Albert W. Aiken, with a full dramatic company, is booked for the 8th inst., and Lydia Thompson and her blonde burlesquers give two entertainments on the 13th and 14th.

John Ellsler, manager of the Academy Music of Cleveland, will play a couple of stars and a complete company from November 20th to November 25th. Olive Logan will lecture on "Nice Young Men," December 9th, and December 11th, 12th and 13th Miss Fanny Janauschek, the queen of tragedy, appears for three nights only, to be followed, however, on the 14th, 15th and 16th by Marston & Stone's Dramatic Alliance. This completes the list of those already engaged, but arrangements have been made with the following lecturers and artists, who will appear during the fall and winter upon dates to be announced hereafter: Lectures and readings by Will M Carleton, author of "Betsy and I are out," James Parton, General Kilpatrick, General S F Cary, Fred. Douglas, A. M. Griswold (Fat Contributor), Colonel John Hay, Charles Sumner (if he lectures), and Mark Twain.

Edwin Booth, Joe Jefferson, and the Vienna Lady Orchestra will also appear.

The above list of lecturers does not include any of those engaged by the regular lecture committee, and many others will doubtless be added to the list, so that we may safely predict that no more brilliant amusement season will ever be afforded our citizens than that now opening, and many cities of larger growth cannot exhibit so enticing a programme.

THE CANVASS FOR ASSEMBLY IN VENANGO COUNTY.—A desperate effort is being made by the Democrats of Venango county to defeat Mr. McJunkin, the Republican candidate for assembly. We are satisfied there is no absolute danger of such a result, but the Republicans should not relinquish their efforts to give him the full party vote. The Citizen says persons are endeavoring to induce Republicans to support the Democratic candidate on the ground there is no prospect of his election and the vote will be "a compliment" only. This and other dodges are being used The Democracy have given up all hope of carrying the state, and under directions from Coffee-pot Wallace are working to elect a majority of the assembly. They want the registry law repealed, and desire to reapportion the congressional districts of the state. Venango is set down by Wallace as one of the Republican districts to be carried by the Democracy, but we are sure his hopes will be blasted. Be on the watch for lying circulars, &c, as election day approaches.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—Dr. Sibbet positively cures baldness and all forms of scalp trouble. His references are abundant and reliable. His mode of treatment makes failure impossible if the case be within reach of remedy. Delays are often dangerous. The Doctor can be consulted at the Mansion House.

ODE TO A CIGAR—AN IMPROMPTU.

BY BENBO O. BOBGER

Dedicated to General Grant.

Cigar, thou comforter to men,
I'd praise thy virtues while I can;
Let those denounce who never knew
The magic of thy spell,
Or have not felt thy soothing powers,
No words can fitly tell.

A prince might well contented be
'Neath fragrant fumes that come from thee
For thou wilt set the mind at ease
In flowery fields of rest—
Wilt bear our burdens and our woes,
And for an hour we're blest.

No incense ever more sweet than thine,
Thou peace offering on memory's shrine;
Cigars are stores of earthly bliss,
In little fragments given:
Then why should some refrain to use
This borrowed key to heaven?

SEPTEMBER MUSINGS.

Alas! the dying summer
Is gone, forever gone!
Its glories and its beauties,
Its fragrance and its song.

May violets, sweet June roses,
White lilies in their turn,
With pinks and scented clover,
And the green and feathery fern.

Dahlias and bright-hued asters,
And the yellow marigold,
And all the brilliant beauties
Our Autumn gardens hold.

But as the tints are deepening,
The gorgeous colors blaze,
The perfume all has perished,
Kiss'd up in the sun's hot rays.

The birds are seeking shelter,
Their twittering notes of call
With the whirr and hum of insects,
Warn us of Summer's fall.

Like the hues of the dying dolphin,
Which but then he expires;
So woods and hillsides kindle
In Summer's dying fires;

While streaks of gold and amber
And bands of crimson eyes,
Azure, and blue, and purple,
Illumine all the skies.

Ask us, whose lives are passing,
Do they brighten with the hour,
To a more perfect ending,
Or a deeper, fuller power?

As childhood's sweetness passes,
And the grace of early years,
Has our love grown bright with goodness
Or is there need of tears?

Has the perfume and the sweetness
Perished with our early prime,
Leaving only passion's furrows,
Dried and seared, and black with time?

Must we say "Alas! our summer,
Gone indeed; forever gone!
No bright hut but bleak, cold winter,
And a heart so sad and lone!"

Or with hope and memory blending,
Earnest efforts, olden deeds,
Is our prospect rich in brightness,
Glowing like the Autumn meads?

With the grain in ripened fullness,
And the crushed grapes press'd to wine;
Ah the Autumn's glorious beauty,
And the blended skies divine;

Perfect each in its fulfillment,
Fruits and flowers, earth and sky;
May we trust to find completeness,
When our record's closed on high.

Neighborhood News.

The fishing season in Lake Erie has commenced, and anglers can now try their lines with a reasonable hope of good luck. The Observer says few parties go out without bringing back from six to a dozen fine black bass.

A father and son named Lawson, near Sugar Grove, were at work last Thursday piling logs, and it seems both of them wanted to boss the job. The son not obeying the command of his father, the old gentleman undertook to enforce obedience, but the young man threw him with so much violence upon a stump as to break his ankle.

The Stoneboro fair, which commenced on Tuesday last for a three days' exhibition, up to Wednesday, had proved a great success. The largest crowd of people ever known to be present at a fair in Mercer county were at Stoneboro on Wednesday.

The liquor dealers of Erie have formed a "Saloon Keeper's Union," for self-defence against the temperance societies. They have resolved that as they cannot ply their vocation on Sunday no others shall have the privilege. At their instance the grocery keepers, cigar dealers, butchers and milkmen were all notified that if they transacted business on Sunday they would be prosecuted. Nearly all these parties suspended business in consequence.

On Wednesday it was rumored that the balloonist with Grady's circus was killed at Emlenton on Tuesday afternoon by falling from the trapez attached to the balloon while he was high up in the air. The rumor went into particulars so far as to say that the aeronaut was smashed to a jolly and that his remains had been taken up in a wash tub. The Franklin Spectator says there was no truth in the story. The balloonist ascended about 600 feet and came down safely within 300 feet of the starting point.

It will be noticed that among the advertisements in our weekly paper Alonzo Norton gives notice that his wife Elizabeth has left his bed and board, &c Well, Alonzo called at our office last week looking rather woe-begone, said his wife had left him and he wanted to advertise the fact to a sympathizing public. We prepared ourselves to copy at his dictation and were surprised to see how familiar he appeared to be with the usual form of that class of advertisements. When it was written he says: "How much?" We replied: "One dollar and a quarter." "Wal, now, raley," said Alonzo, "I've never been in the habit of paying but a dollar!" We come down just for this occasion only.—Jamestown Journal.

Arrangements have been made with the Erie & Pittsburgh railroad, by which excursion tickets at half fare, will be issued from all stations on the road, to persons attending the fair here at Connesautville, the 4th, 5th and 6th of October. The tickets will be good on all passenger trains, and on the morning freights arriving from the north at 7:00, and from the south at 8:30.

The Knight Templars of Erie are making arrangements to attend in a body the Triennial Grand Encampment of the United States, which will be held in Baltimore; commencing on Tuesday, the 19th inst., and continuing until the Saturday following.

—The claim of Erie county against James Foreman, deceased, of Corry, has been collected. Mr. Foreman was a tax collector, and at the time of his death was a delinquent to the extent of some four thousand dollars. The account has been allowed to rest a number of years, without any effort to settle it, until the demands of the press and people compelled some action to be taken by the county authorities. The bail of Mr. Foreman being responsible, legal steps were taken to recover, and the whole sum is now in the hands of the county officers.

The conference of the Lake Erie Universalist association announced in our last issue to be held at Wellsburg, has been changed to West Springfield, on the 20th and 21st of September. There will be a two days' meeting at Wellsburg on the Saturday and Sunday following, the 23d and 24th of September.

ATTENTION STEAMER NO. 2.—All members of the new steamer company city of Titusville are requested to meet at the rooms on Spring street at eight o'clock to-night, sharp, with their uniforms, as business of importance is to be transacted.

By order of Foreman.

The Insanity of Mr. Langfitt—His Attempt at Suicide.

PIONEER, Sept. 15, 1871.

Editors Morning Herald:

GENTS:—On receipt of your issue of today I notice your extract from the Pittsburgh Leader of the attempt of a gentleman to leap from a train on the Valley road, on Tuesday morning, while in motion; and it is with deep feelings of sorrow and horror that his many friends along the creek recognize this party to be none other than Mr. John Langfitt, an oil dealer, and long a resident of Shaffer farm, where he resided up to the time of his departure last Monday night for his home in Western Virginia. The facts of the case are as follows. Maybe three months since his intimate friends began to notice a strangeness about Mr. Langfitt's actions. He did not appear to be well, and only a few days afterwards was taken with fever and confined to his house for over a month. On his recovery he attended to his business of handling and shipping oil for Martin & Co., of Jamestown, N. Y. Still his family and friends observed he did not act like himself, and they began to fear his mind was gradually becoming affected from some cause. His physician being consulted, he could not fathom the mystery. Mr. Langfitt's parents, who are worthy people residing in Fairview, Hancock county, West Virginia, were notified by letter of his condition, and it was suggested to them that they take him home, thinking that a change and rest from business would be beneficial to his mind and health. His father at once acted upon this, arriving here on Monday, the 4th of September, and endeavored to persuade his son to return with him at once. This John would not do, but consented to accompany his father to Buffalo to consult omin nt physicians. They returned from Buffalo on Monday morning of this week, and took the train the same night for Virginia, taking a sleeping-coach from Pioneer. I kept John with me up to the time the train left at the earnest request of his father and wife as he objected strongly to going Monday night, stating he wished to see a friend before he left, as he might never see him again. I kept him with me in my ticket office and watched to see if I could discover any appearance of insanity, but with the exception of a slight restlessness in his eye, he appeared the same as he had for weeks past. As I stated above, I saw them all safely in the sleeping-coach bound for Pittsburgh, from which it seems he attempted to escape by jumping from the window while the train was in motion. Mr. Langfitt during his stay upon the creek had drawn around him a large circle of friends in the business and social circles as a straight-forward business man and a gentleman, and it is with deep feelings of sorrow that we learn of this sad accident which confirms his sad condition.

Yours truly, M. J. MAXON.

DENIER'S BENEFIT LAST NIGHT.—The exhibition last night at the Opera House was slimly attended, owing partly to the inclemency of the weather and partly to the high price of admission. The entertainment consisted of singing by Maggie Willett's Female Minstrels, and an olio performance by Denier's full novelty troupe. The songs, dances, etc., were given in their usual good manner, and the acts were well received and encored. Mr. E. H. Brink gave a very fine recitation of the poem entitled 'Sheridan's Ride." After these performances were ended, Mr. James Cusick, Mace's trainer, introduced James Mace, the acknowledged champion pugilist of the world and Jas. H. McLaughlin, the champion wrestler of the United States. Mr. Mace was dressed in a close-fitting red shirt and white flannel pantaloons, while Mr McLaughlin wore a white shirt and knee-breeches. The set-to between these gentlemen was quite lively, and, although Mace seemed to have the advantage of McLaughlin in point of science, yet the latter made a very fine display. Mr. Pooley Mace was next introduced to the audience, and donned the gloves with his cousin "Jem." This appeared to be a more equal match, although there was little science displayed, as the boxers played at give-and-take during the entire encounter. Mr. Brink announced from the stage that there would be another exhibition take place in the opera-house this evening when Mace and McLaughlin would wrestle for a purse of $100, to be given to Mace if he wins. This announcement was made without Mr. Mace's knowledge, but when consulted said he would have a try for it, and consented to appear. The price of admission will be reduced to $1 00, 75 and 50 cents.

Oil News.

On Saturday last a well owned by Messrs. Prentice, Crawford, Barbour & Co., located on the Stroman farm, Bully Hill, was completed and tubed, and is yielding about forty barrels of oil per day. When the sand rock had been penetrated a distance of a few feet a strong vein of gas was struck, which rushed from the well with great force, throwing the oil over the top of the derrick, and it was with difficulty that the drilling was completed. The sand rock is about twenty-five feet thick, and of an excellent quality. This strike opens up a large tract of new territory, a considerable portion of which is owned by the company named above. A large number of wells are being drilled in the vicinity of the new strike, which, when completed, will give a definite idea of the width of the "belt" and general extent of the producing territory.

Franklin is now almost surrounded with oil producing territory, and may safely be said to be the centre of the oil producing region. The development of Bully Hill will add much to the business of the city, and the prospects of lively times the coming season are flattering.

On Saturday a well owned by Messrs. Samuel Mitchell, Ernst, Muckey, Grant and others, of this city, located on the Huff farm, Cranberry township, was completed and commenced testing on Monday last, and is estimated to be a good seventy-five barrel well. This strike proves that the "belt theory" is not very reliable, and the general direction of the "belt" is east of south, instead of west of south, from Reno.

Bradley well No. 7, on the Milton farm, Cranberry, commenced pumping on Friday last, and is yielding according to most reliable reports, sixty barrels per day.

Shirk well No 2, same locality, was completed on Saturday, and is yielding fifty barrels per day.—Citizen.

Jacob Sheesley struck a new well on the McCalmont farm, Franklin, Wednesday, which is good for over one hundred barrels. It is five hundred and thirty feet deep and has twenty-eight feet of sand. There are nine more wells going down on the same farm

No. 38 Reno was struck the 7th of last July and flowed at first about 400 barrels The production has run down to forty barrels. On Thursday it was cleaned out and drilled about six inches deeper, when it commenced to spout again. It will probably do 200 barrels.

The McPherson well on the Black farm, Parker's, which was finished Saturday, has been tested and is good for 160 barrels. It is north of the Thomas farm.—Derrick.

From the Jamestown Journal.

Yesterday, Wednesday, afternoon, according to the notice given in Monday's daily, the yacht race for the champion flag took place at Griffith's Point.

A large number of spectators were on the grounds at Griffith's, and the lake was dotted with row and various sail boats, eager to see the champion race.

The contesting yachts were the Naiad, Spray, Sea Bird and Idler. The crews of the three last-named boats were determined to win the flag from the Naiad, if possible, while on the other hand the owner of the champion flag was as determined to "hang on to it," and well they did. They received a good send-off at 2 30 p.m.—the proper time allowance, as in the former race, was allowed.

The crafts rounded the first boat stake as follows: Spray, Idler, Naiad and Sea Bird, but on their onward course the Idler seemed to tarry by the way, and allowed the other boats to pass her. The second stake was rounded thus: Spray, Naiad, Sea Bird and Idler. The wind died out for a few minutes and a perfect calm was the result; but when the breeze sprang up again the boats cut through the water at a good speed, and on reaching the third stake boat the fleet was still led by the Spray, but was closely followed by the Sea Bird, Naiad and Idler. On the home stretch both the Idler and Naiad seemed to wake up to business, and the way the Naiad went home showed she had kept most of "her wind" for the last run.

On the homeward stretch, near the winning post, the whole fleet were deprived of the "wherewith" and had to float with the tide for about 100 rods. The order and time of the yachts was as follows: Naiad, 5,45.15; Idler, 5,49.42; Spray, 5,50.55; Sea Bird, 5,59.25.

The course of sailing was from Griffith's Point to Maple Point, thence to Cheney's and the Nar
